Regatta Day Is Triumph for Healanis Oars

BLUES TAKE EVENTS WITH CRACK CREWS

Strength and Form Win Seventeenth Annual Water Sports from Old-Time Rivals

WATER AND WEATHER CONDITIONS PERFECT

Myrtle Oarsmen Show Splendid Spirit of Pluck and Fight To Last Event

Using spoon oars in place of brooms, the Healanis crews swept the harbor this morning, and made a thorough job of it. The blue and white waved triumphant after every inter-club race, and from boat house and barge packed with Healanis members and guests, came cheer upon cheer to spur the oarsmen across the finish line. The Myrtle boat house, farther down the harbor, was packed with partisans, but as race after race was rowed, with Healanis boats well in the lead, Myrtle enthusiasm dropped to a low ebb, and a heavy silence brooded under the red and white pennant.

It was generally conceded that the Healanis would take the senior barge event with ease, and Myrtle hopes were centered in the junior and freshman sixes, and in the junior pair-oar, when the bow of the Healanis freshman barge crossed the finish line there was a good six lengths of open water between it and the Myrtle entry, and when the junior barge race almost duplicated this result, Myrtle rowers came to the conclusion that "it was a hoodoo year for the red and white."

From the standpoint of the looker-on, the regatta itself was not nearly as exciting as that of last year but the general spirit of Regatta Day was optimum, and a true holiday crowd was out to enjoy the sport. Business Honolulu was deserted, and most of the liberated business men took themselves and their families to the waterfront. A conservative estimate of the crowd that viewed the events is 10,000 and there were many whose figures reached the 15,000 mark. The day was ideal, for contestants and spectators alike, for the gentle breeze was hardly strong enough to ruffle the smooth waters of the harbor, but was sufficient to cool off the closely-packed spectators, and temper the strong sunshine that poured down from a cloudless sky.

After Decked Out.
Honolulu harbor was in gala attire. Every type and size of craft, ranging from the revenue cutter Thetis to the smallest outrigger canoe, was dressed in honor of the day, and showed colors and bunting in proper

"SEE OAHU NOW" IS CONVENTION SUNDAY PLAN

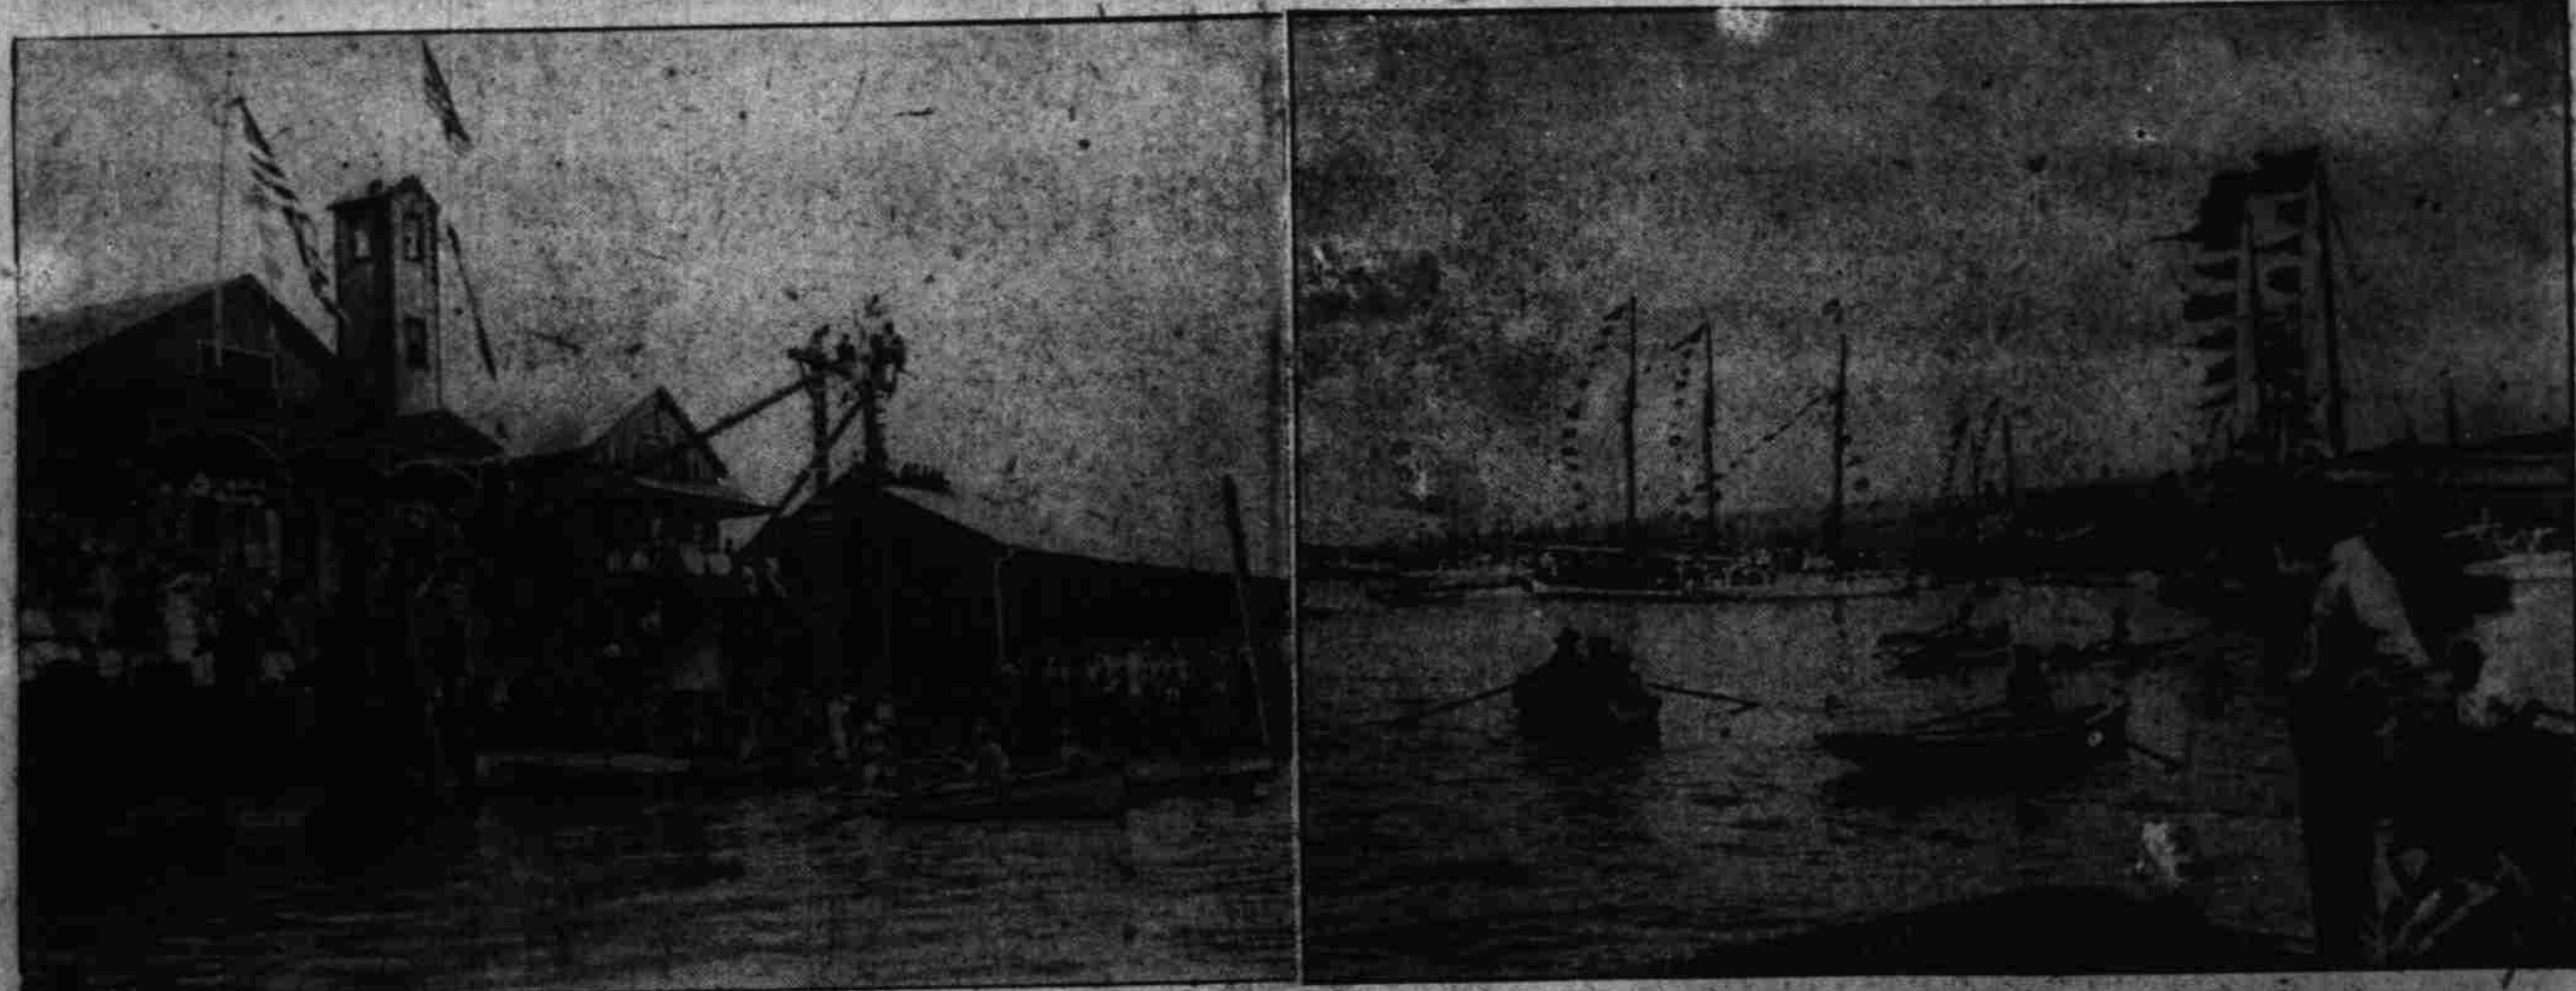

Automobile Trip Around Island Will Be Made Unless Rain Should Interfere—Otherwise Railroad Trip Is Program

If Jupiter Pluvius sees fit to remain dormant tomorrow, and does not turn the switch which will bring the "liquid sunshine," the delegates who arrived in Honolulu this morning to attend the civic convention, will be the guests of the local commercial organizations in an automobile trip around the island of Oahu. Automobiles have been secured to accommodate the entire party and all is in readiness for the trip, which will not doubt be the big feature of the entertainment end of the convention.

Those delegates who are to make the trip are requested to gather at the rooms of the Promotion Committee, Bishop street, at half-past nine o'clock, in order that an early start may be made to provide ample time for the tour. In case the weather is favorable, one party will leave the committee rooms and journey around the island via Haleiwa, returning over the Pali, while the second will make the trip over the Pali and return via Haleiwa. In case of rain, the automobile trip will be postponed entirely, and a trip made to the country on a special train of the O. R. & L. Co. It is hoped, however, that weather conditions will permit the automobile trip being made, as it will be new to many of the delegates.

DELEGATES TO CONVENTION GET HEARTY WELCOME

Honolulu Turns Out En Masse to Greet Visitors from Hawaii and Maui When Mauna Kea Docks This A. M.

The hammer has been interred deeper: the knot of friendship which binds Honolulu, Hawaii and Maui has been tightened. With flags and pennants flying and with the cheers of the hundreds of Honoluluans who thronged the Inter-island dock echoing out across the harbor, mingled with the lively airs of the Hawaiian band, the Hawaii and Maui delegates to the second annual convention of the civic and commercial bodies of the territory were cordially welcomed upon their arrival in this city in the Mauna Kea this morning. The welcome was a huge success. The plans of the local commercial organizations were carried out to the letter and, in the opinion of the Hilo delegates, the welcome to Honolulu far exceeded their highest expectations.

Long before the Mauna Kea hove in sight, the dock was crowded with persons of every nationality, arrayed in holiday attire and eager to do their share in welcoming the visitors. Prominent among those on the dock were the members of the Honolulu Ad Club—at least, all those members who were not engaged in some other jinks—natty in cream and white suits with white hats bearing a yellow band on which was the inscription of the organization. The spirit of

This criticism, he states, is partly due to partisan feeling, partly to maliciousness and partly to misinformation by his critics as to just what his Chautauqua lecturing has involved.
